WAR INSURANCE POLICIES EASED TO ATTRACT SERVICE MEN

date family, such as parents, brothers and sisters, widows and children can be named as beneficiaries.

May Set Up Reserve. In order that the insurance to be issued after the war may be properly administered, the bureau has asked authority to invest the premiums and set up a reserve fund, investment to be made in interest-bearing obligations of the United States government.

Under the present insurance act, policy holders have the privilege of maintaining their war-time insurance for a period of five years after peace is declared, or they can convert it. There are three forms of endowment policies to which the discharged service men can convert his policy, and three other forms of permanent policies.

There is an endowment policy maturing at the age of 25. The person insured pays premiums until he becomes 62 years old and then he gets the full value of his policy. In the case of the 30 years' endowment policy, the insured pays a higher premium for that length of time at the end of which period he gets the full value of his policy. (The same is true of the 20 years' endowment, only the rate is still higher.)

In the case of any of the endowment policies, if death or permanent disability occurs before the end of the endowment period the policy matures and becomes payable to the insured or the beneficiary named. If the insured becomes totally and permanently disabled before the expiration of the endowment period, the policy becomes payable to the insured himself.

Rules on Conversion. To convert a policy for a regular conversion form to the conversion section, insurance division, War Risk Insurance bureau, Washington, D. C. Conversion may be made even though the old policy has lapsed by reason of failure to pay the premiums. A policy holder may convert to a smaller amount than his original policy, but he cannot convert a larger sum.

The records of the bureau show that about 75 percent of the men who have been demobilized have allowed their insurance to become inactive by non-payment of premiums. Despite this fact, Director Cholmeley-Jones feels confident that before the time limit for reinstating the policy expires many of the delinquents will renew their policies. He is of the opinion that the men who are privileged to take advantage of government insurance, the cheapest and safest in the world, will not pass up that right.

"We must consider," he said, "that by all odds the larger number of men who served in the war were unmarried. The record of the insurance in the bureau shows that 51 percent of the policies were taken out for others as against only 7.68 percent for wives. It is perfectly natural that these young huskies returned to the quiet ways of peace should feel that paying insurance premiums on a policy for mother isn't good business. What chap doesn't expect to outlive his mother? They possibly overlook the fact that there is a future ahead of them. They themselves will be the heads of families for whom it will be their bounden duty to provide the bulwark of life insurance. If they once lose their right to government insurance, it can never be regained."

Grasp Your Opportunity Today

It is not always initiative, nor education, nor hard work, that makes the difference between the person who succeeds and the one who travels the beaten path of mediocrity.

It is frequently merely a matter of readiness for the opportunity—of preparation for the work in hand.

Stop and think about it, and you will see there is only one time to prepare for a successful career and that is when going to school is possible. The man or woman of fifty cannot go to school—or at least will not—and the boy or girl, who has not yet taken on serious responsibilities that come later, can go to school, and if they are wise, will do so.

The Demand for Bookkeepers and Stenographers is the Greatest in the History of this Country.

The business of the country is badly crippled on account of the shortage of capable Stenographers and Bookkeepers. This is the greatest business age the world has ever known and the demand for trained young men and women far exceeds the supply. The Government is still calling for office help and urging us to secure more young men and women for positions in Washington. The salaries now are higher than during the war.

During the past year we were unable to fill many of the positions offered us and YET OUR ENROLLMENT WAS THE LARGEST WE HAVE EVER HAD.

Unique Dive Saves Him From Drowning

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.)

Denver, Col.—Diving like Annette Kellermann from the second story of a barn and catching hold of the tail of a horse and, then being conveyed safely to dry land is now a new indoor sport—It's just the manner in which Max Lesser made his getaway from a cloudburst near Lyons recently.

A ranchman cut rotting a girl's stick after the storm, rescued a girl who had taken refuge on the top of Lesser's automobile, which he had been compelled to leave and take shelter in the barn.

When the ranchman and girl riding the horse passed the barn where Lesser was stalled, he saw them and made the dip.

BOY SCOUTS ENJOY LIFE AT TURTLE LAKE

By JAMES MCCUE.

It had been a great day for the 27 members of Troop 2, Boy Scouts, at Turtle Lake, and the sun was just going to rest as I reached that beautiful spot last night. The boys were all perfect physical condition and with their leader, R. G. Pierson, were just preparing for the night's entertainment when I arrived.

People who have never had the opportunity of visiting a camp should avail themselves of the chance offered and pay a visit to the Scout camp. The entire camp is run soldier-like and the boys are under the direct command of R. G. Pierson.

Five large tents, an open air dining hall, and two outdoor stoves make up the camp. The 27 young Americans of Janesville are housed in four tents, the larger tents being occupied by Pierson occupying a smaller one, in which he also keeps the food and a large number of books which young Americans should read.

On my arrival at the camp last night I was warmly greeted by Pierson and Pierson, leader of another Scout organization, and the boys. They are having a great time out there at Turtle Lake, and it is an ideal spot for a Boy Scout camp. The camp itself is situated on a slope leading to the lake on the east. It is protected from the wind on three sides and its location affords the boys a magnificent view of the entire lake.

Clean living and true Americanism are the mottoes of the camp and each day the boys receive instructions from their leader on the two subjects. A large American flag can be seen flying at the camp, and raising exercises are held each day.

In discussing the camp with Pierson last night he proudly asserted that he had the greatest bunch of boys in Janesville and he smiled a smile of pride as he told of the splendid work of these young Americans.

"True Americans and real boys, everyone of them," Pierson said.

The boys are required by regulations to arise each morning at 6 o'clock. After a 15-minute rest, they are then held, after which the Scouts partake of their morning meal in the open air.

Bible study is held shortly after the breakfast hour and for 15 minutes the boys are given instructions by Pierson. At the conclusion of the Bible exercises the balance of the forenoon is given over to athletic games and swimming.

During the games every boy is required to participate and keen rivalry is manifested by the youths during the contests. They are all eager to excel in the sports and with this spirit the boys derive a great deal of benefit from the games.

Prepare Own Food. Sharply at noon the second meal of the day is served and again the boys eat in the open air dining hall. At dinner the boys are generally asked to prepare their own food.

Yesterday several of the boys succeeded in landing several perch from the lake and each boy prepared his own fish dinner. All of the cooking is done under the personal direction of Pierson.

During the afternoon the boys are allowed time in which to swim, read and visit the canteen a short distance from the camp.

At 6:30 a huge camp fire is built and the Scouts all gather round while stories are told and games are played.

At 8:30 that well known "bugle call," taps is sounded and the boys turn in smiling and softly saying, "This is the life."

CONSTABLE ALIVE TO DUTIES ARRESTS BOY

It was the quick work of Constable Klitzke, Milton Junction, which resulted in the arrest of John Hudson Thursday, according to Sheriff Fred Beley. Even Canines Feeling High Cost of Living

Chicago—Old Man High Cost, has stepped on the tail of the Chicago bowwow. There is a serious shortage of dog food.

No longer does little Willie pick up all the stray canines to be fed from the rich leftovers from the family table.

"No, indeed," says ma. "We need all the scraps for hash!" And so the poor doggie has none.

About 10,000 fewer dog licenses were issued last year than in the preceding year. Old Man High Cost has become as extinct as the dodo if old man High Cost keeps up his merry pace.

SALOONKEEPERS TO BE TRIED IN TEST CASE

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Aug. 16.—The selling of beer by six saloonkeepers at Giddens will be made a test case that will be carried to the United States supreme court on direction of District Attorney A. C. Wolfe these six saloonkeepers were arrested. In five cases the complaint states the specific alcohol content of alcohol in the beer. In one case the complaint simply says that it was more than one-half of the one percent. A demurrer has been entered in the cases by Attorney Ralph W. Jackson, who contends that the sale of beer is permissible. The legal phase of the matter will be fully presented in federal court next Friday and the appeal will be taken at once from the decision of the United States supreme court.

RECITES JAPANESE BRUTALITIES IN KOREA

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, Aug. 16.—Prof. Homer B. Hulbert, who went to Korea for the state department in 1912 and who later acted as an adviser to the Korean government for a number of years, filed with the senate foreign relations committee today an extensive recital of Japanese brutalities in Korea, charging the Japanese with the provision of German rights in Shantung to Japan. He declared that unless the Koreans were made free, the world must look on and see the rapid extinction of a nation of 18,000,000 people.

One Language in U. S. Opposed by Dr. Miller

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.)

Philadelphia, Pa.—The movement to establish "one language in America, and that English," was recently vigorously protested against by Dr. Herbert Adolphus Miller, in an address on "America's Alien Squad." Dr. Miller, who is chief of the division on immigration heretofore, was recently a member of the committee on the movement to stamp out foreign languages among immigrants and substitute the English language was wrong. He declared that had been the case in Prussia, by Austria, in Bohemia, and by one government or another in almost every country in Europe and had always failed.

Dr. Miller said it was ridiculous to demand that foreign languages in our colleges and seek to prevent the children of immigrants from using their parents' native tongue. He said there was more to be learned from the language newspapers in this country and that if the immigrants are going to learn about America and the world they must get their information through the newspapers.

"The best thing Philadelphia could do to win over the Poles, Lithuanians and Slovaks would be to introduce the study of their own languages in the high schools," Dr. Miller continued. "It would win both parents and children by showing them that we respect the things they hold dear. If you go to the limit in the study of the language of the immigrants they will come a mile to meet you with the English language."

Chicago Buys Clothes for Its Millionaires

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.)

Chicago, Aug. 16.—No one can say that Chicago doesn't look after its millionaires.

For instance when members of the Builders and Trades exchange heard about J. Ogden Armour, Julius Rosenwald, and other men of vast wealth being so hard up that they could afford only one pair of shoes every three or four years, they immediately took up a collection to buy shoes for the downtrodden plutocrats.

When Armour heard about it, he immediately sent his correct address to the board so that the shoes could not be any name so astray. He also sent a note which said:

"Instead of shopping with a pair of shoes why not present me with a wardrobe for a year?"

No. Active Campaign for Soldier Bonus Seen

Madison, Aug. 16.—That there will be no active campaign in Wisconsin for the soldier bonus bill are the indications here. There is pending before Attorney General Blaine a request for an opinion on the validity of the measure. The vote on the measure will be held Sept. 2. The bill provides for a sur tax on incomes that will produce approximately $5,000,000 and a general property tax of not to exceed 10 cents on the dollar, which is expected to produce about $10,000,000. Counties that do not desire to raise their entire share by a tax may do so by a bond issue.

Anticipating that the bill is to be enacted by a favorable vote the tax commission is gathering material and compiling data for the assessment of the income and property taxes. The bill will be made, will be announced by the tax commission early in September, according to Nils P. Haugen, chairman of the state tax commission.

Street Railway Tax Data Being Compiled

Madison, Aug. 16.—The state tax commission today began the compilation of data relating to the taxes of street railway and interurban companies in Wisconsin. The preliminary assessment of these properties will be made some time next week. The indications are that there will be few increases in the street railway properties and in some instances there will be a decrease. The tax commission is laboring conditions and the cost of materials the earnings of street railway properties have not been as high during the past year as previous years. This fact is reflected in the valuations.

The production "Bolshevism On Trial" is greatly complicated, dealing as it does with the many extreme methods adopted by Bolsheviks to further their ideas, so we state in advance that some people may not like this picture, for it presents a great vital, throbbing, present-day theme which is a matter of almost universal interest. That is why we offer it the first three days next week.

Forestry Ass'n Warns Against "Bad Big Four"

WASHINGTON.—The forest world has a "Big Four" too, and they get in their worst work in the month of August, says the monthly warning issued by the American Forestry association, which will send any reader of this paper a free bulletin on tree planting. The "Big Four" line up this way: Locust, Almond, White Pine, Weevil. Trees are appreciated the most in the hot month of August, and the American Forestry association calls attention to the forest fires that have been sweeping through several states as one of the reasons for a national forest policy, which is so badly needed at this time.
For leaf-eating insects arsenate of lead of a standard brand is the thing. Proportions should be about one pound to two gallons of water. For plant lice, whale-oil soap at one pound to five gallons of water will do the business. The pruning of shade and ornamental trees can be begun this month, and evergreens can be transplanted after Aug. 15. Egg masses of the tussock moth should be collected and burned, as should the cocoons of the bog worm and similar insects.

Refinite Perfect Soft Water
is used exclusively in this laundry

REFINITE is a water softening mineral, not a chemical preparation to "break" water. We run the water through a large steel tank containing this mineral, and it comes out perfectly soft.

Refinite softened water cannot injure the most delicate fabric or cause it to shrink; less rubbing is required to lift the dirt; no soap curd is left in the clothes to later give them an unsightly yellow hue.

We will be pleased to show you how Refinite softens water. Call any time.

Refinite softened water is delicious to drink, and more healthful than hard water. Bring a jug and take a sample home.

Heart and Home Problems

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

If the girl who recently wrote me of her disappointment in not being able to go to school and have good clothes, signing her name and address, I will put her in touch with a kind family that would like to help her.

MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON,
1465 East 103th St.,
Cleveland, O.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young girl, not very good looking, but some of my girl friends say I am cute, which is about all. I dress as well as any of the bunch and have a few boy friends.

When I find a fellow I like, he seems to get tired of me after going out a few times. What is it?

I usually try to be pleasant, but am very quick tempered and any little thing makes me peaved. I can't stand to have a fellow act snooty around me. The other girls don't mind and the boys say I shouldn't. Do you think I should?

I should judge from your letter that you are still in your teens. That is a restless period in life and has its sorrows as well as joys. You are developing character and personality, but at present are unsettled in your tastes and feelings. You don't know what you want. Be patient. Do not worry about present conditions, because in a year or two you will have adapted yourself to young womanhood and will have found friends more to your liking.

You say the boys tire of you. Don't you tire of the boys, too? It is simply the unsettled state of youth which makes both of you reach out for something unknown.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been going with a girl for two years and am engaged to her. She loves all the time I have gone with her. I have not kept company with other girls or had any desire to. Until lately my fiancée has had the same attitude as I, but for the past two months she has been having on the average, two dates a week with another fellow. I do not distrust her and try not to be jealous, but it makes me feel badly. I think that I have become so uninteresting as to no longer receive her whole attention.

Do you think she is treating me fairly?

If you do, how can I keep from being jealous?

If you do not, how can I make her understand without hurting her feelings?

I am to be married soon. In my case do you think it too soon?

THANK YOU.

The girl is not treating you fairly. Tell her that unless she loves you enough to give up the other young man, you release her from the engagement. She may accept your offer of release, and if she does, be thankful, because you would never be happy in a loveless marriage.

If she gives up the other young man for you, marry any time, because you have reason to know she loves you.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My face is very round and I would like to know a way to comb my hair so that my face looks less round. SIXTEEN.

Do not part your hair in the middle. If you pump it you will find that the face is less round in appearance.

SPORTS OUTFIT OF DUVETYN FOR FALL

BY ELOISE

Much stress is being put upon the autumn season. The designers have never before been so generous with pretty models for September and October wear. The young woman who intends to take her vacation during our "Indian summer" will be able to choose attractive hats and wraps from a host of alluring styles.

This coat pictured will be found delightful for wear on the links, in the country, on the motor trip or boat ride and will be especially useful for wear in the mountain districts. It is a forest shade of green duvetyn, made in three-quarter length and trimmed with gray brushed wool. The shape of which is a straight sailor shape of medium size, is gray duvetyn with a conventional design embroidered on the edge of the trim. The coat and hat will be just as appropriate for wear with a woolen skirt and blouse as with a light frock.

A NEW IDEA.

In warm weather the question of keeping bread in its best possible state arises. It is of special interest because of the necessity of preventing any possible waste through bread drying out or through its spoiling in warm, moist air. The national bakers' service board gives unique

Keep the bread in the ice box. Wrap the loaf or any unused portion in the waxed paper in which it reaches you or in other clean waxed paper and place it in your ice box.

This is the best place to keep it in hot weather, and there it will remain in fine, fresh-condition longer than when kept in the warm air. Careful wrapping will prevent its coming in contact with moisture or absorbing odors from other foods in the box.

Try it—the ice box is the place for your bread in the summer time!

GOOD RECIPES.

Peanut Soup (serves three)—Make a thin white sauce of half tablespoon butter, half tablespoon flour and two and one-half cups milk; add half cup peanuts which have been roasted and put through a food chopper, and one teaspoon salt. Bring to boiling point and cook for one hour.

Baked Apples—Select good sized cooking or baking apples; pare and core; then take a fig, roll it tightly and place in the center, where core was removed, and place a portion of apple over either end so all the sweetness and flavor of the fig can be retained.

ROOSTER GIVES ALARM.

New York—The crowing of a rooster and the saving of a hen led to the discovery and arrest of Louis Butler, who was in the act of burglarizing a poultry market of Brooklyn in the middle of the night. Detective Thorpe went in the rear and found that the rooster had fallen into a crate of chickens.

The Daily Novelette

THE DUKE WHO LOVED A COOK.

(Historical romance series.)
Inconceivable as it may seem, Thomas, John, William, Henry, Inglebiotz, Duke of Swingham and Fitch, and brother to the King, fell wildly in love with a little cook—a poor but pretty girl of the peasantry; as illiterate as she was ignorant and as penniless as she was poor.

But one thing did she excel in and that one thing was cooking. Her loaves of bread were as light as feathers away from gravity and pie? Oh, my! Her codfish pies were the talk of the country and many's and many's the swain and country lout that did not of her pies and bask in her smiles.

So, no wonder is it that the Duke Inglebiotz, of etc, etc, who was a man of keen appetite and considerable tastes, did fall for the pretty Doughnutta. For, as the prophets have quoth: "A man's stomach proposes and his mouth disposes."

And no truer words have ever been spoken, for after the first bite of baken biscuit had passed down the Duke's royal gullet, he laid his ducal crown and estates at her feet.

Doughnutta, nothing loath to wed a brother to her king, consented. But when the King heard of the mess of an alliance, he sent troop of horses to kidnap the ambitious peasant, and place her in a convent for life.

But—Inglebiotz, hearing of the dastardly disposal of his darling Doughnutta, stole her himself and thus were they wed—the comely cook and the daring Duke, the king's brother.

Then passed a few happy years until the King, having fallen in love with Doughnutta's codfish pies, ordered the Duke to the front of battle, where he fell.

But Doughnutta, true to her troth, refused to make more pies like mother used to make and made for the King, a pan of biscuits heavier than lead.

The King ate of them and went crazy sitting on top of a pile of newspapers and imagining himself a human paperweight.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO DR. BRADY, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

FEEDING THE GROWING YOUNGSTERS.

Boys and girls from eight to fourteen years of age expend a tremendous total of energy every day in two very vital and important ways, namely, playing and growing. A real live boy or girl at this age is pretty busy all day, and often the child uses up considerably more energy in the day than does the parent. Then, too, the parent is all through growing, whereas the child is just getting under way with that energy-consuming process. Therefore it is meet and just that the live child should eat as much or perhaps a little more than the parent requires.

All right then, children, let us draw up a sort of feeding schedule to fall back on in case father or mother is afflicted with any superstitious convictions or a feller's food requirements.

Right off the reel be it resolved, seconded and duly recorded that four

SUFFRAGISTS HAVE MODERN BETSY ROSS

Miss Edith Ainge.

Miss Edith Ainge is the Betsy Ross of the National Woman's party. This photograph shows her wearing the eleven-point star on the suffrage flag, a purple, white and gold emblem. The last star is for Missouri. The other states which have ratified the suffrage amendment are Wisconsin, Michigan, Kansas, Ohio, New York, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Texas.

meals a day are none too many for a live boy or girl, although three are often one too many for dad or mother.

Second meal. Milk, preferably raw, fresh milk, but pasteurized if the source of supply is questionable, or even boiled five minutes if refrigeration is lacking at any stage from cow to kitchen, but, anyway, milk is the whole feature of the meal. Every boy or girl who is a live one, who wishes to grow well and keep well, should make it a point to drink a quart of milk a day.

Milk gives much energy, opposes intestinal disturbances and numerous small ailments, is rich in vitamins which favor natural growth and nutrition, and a wholesome beverage to use instead of getting into the tea or coffee or cocoa habit. Children under sixteen have no business taking tea or coffee, and even cocoa is less desirable than milk.

For breakfast a fair sample menu includes, first, whatever stewed or fresh fruit is in season. Then a dish of any home cooked cereal with cream and if desired, sugar. Then an egg, cooked to suit individual taste; some bread and butter or toast, and one or two glasses of milk.

For 10:30 lunch a bowl of bread and milk, a bowl of soup, a bowl of soup, bread and jam or jelly, some stewed or fresh fruit, a glass of milk.

For dinner: A piece of steak or fish or chicken just as big as mother's or father's helping. Potatoes with butter or gravy. One other vegetable. Greens or a relish in season. Bread and butter. Custard or tapioca or rice pudding or ice cream or jelly or candy as dessert.

Milk as second course for children over thirteen.

Painful though it is to add a word of caution, yet there is need for it. Skinny or poorly nourished children should be required invariably to remain seated at table twenty minutes at least, even though they eat nothing after the first few nibbles.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

A Fat Girl Interjects.
I am an eighteen year old, 67 inches tall and weigh 159 pounds. Is that the normal weight for a girl of my age and height? If not, what diet and exercise tend to reduce excess fat? (E. K. V.)

ANSWER—The average weight of girls seventeen years old and 67 inches tall is 140 pounds, so you are a trifle more than 10 percent too heavy. Your results are rather good to give fat folks better morale to help them come back, but will scarcely reduce fat, not being what you can call exercise. Fletcherizer Miss V. That will take care of your slight excess of weight. Read Fletcherizer's The New Embrace, which you should find in any public library.

To Correspondents.
Dr. Brady wishes to remind his correspondents that whenever a personal reply is desired, a self-addressed envelope, with a stamp on it, must accompany the request for information. Letters which will not do. The time that would be required to affix stamps and address envelopes, etc., would be too great, and the large number of letters received daily.

SIDE TALKS

—By—
RUTH CAMERON

AN UNGENEROUS TALENT.

The talent of turning men to ridicule and exposing to laughter their own converses with, is the gratification of little minds and ungenerous tempers. A young man with this cast of mind cuts himself off from all manner of improvement.—Addison.

A few weeks ago I met a dear little friend of mine who had just finished her first year of college. She looked as sweet and lovable as ever, but I hadn't been with her an hour before I found that she wasn't.

I found she had acquired something besides a year of book learning at college. She had acquired the trick of making fun of people and things. She has always been bright and she had evidently gotten into the habit of using her brightness in this way and had been applauded for it. I can't tell you how disappointed I was.

Some people never pass through it because—

I know that it is not uncommon for young people to pass through a phase when they think that ridiculing everybody is a sign of wit and wisdom, but I did think that she was bigger than that. And I still feel sure that she isn't one of those who never pass through that phase for the unhappy reason that they remain in it all their lives.

There is no more childish or ignominious use to which one can put a native wit than to make indiscriminate fun of everybody who takes any wit. Almost anyone can do it—if he will throw his sense of kindness and justice to the winds. And almost anything can be made to seem ridiculous if you will go about it in a sufficiently malicious and irreverent way.

Why Stop Up Your Mind to Stop. Moreover, if you once build yourself a reputation for this kind of wit, you will soon find that you will be willing to attack anyone and every body. I once knew a girl who had gotten quite a reputation as a wit. One day she said to me, "I've made up my mind to stop making fun of people."

"Why is that?" I asked.

"Well, I caught myself making fun of the friend I care for most of all, just because I was with someone who doesn't like or understand her. And when I found myself sacrificing loyalty to a chance to make someone laugh, I knew it was time to take a right about face."

An experience like that ought to make anyone pause.

Fancy Someone Making Fun of You. And here's another suggestion for the confirmed fun-maker. Try this some day. Ask yourself if the person you wanted couldn't make fun of you. Just "stand aside and watch yourself go by" and see if you couldn't pick out plenty of idiosyncrasies and mannerisms. Fancy someone making fun of these. Put the words into the mouth of some friend. See how that makes you feel. See if the very idea of it doesn't hurt you. Yet this is just what you are doing to others all the time.

Of course, there is such a thing as good-natured fun and such a thing as deserved ridicule, but I am sure you are too clever to need any help to tell the difference between the chaff of indiscriminate ridicule.

WEINGARTEN BROS., Inc. NEW YORK - CHICAGO

The Magnificent Ambersons

By BOOTH TARKINGTON

Copyright by Doubleday, Page & Co.

Eugene himself, as he came up the cement path to the house, was a figure of the new era which was in time to be so disastrous to stiff hats and skirted coats; and his appearance afforded a deplorable contrast to that of the queer-looking duck capering at the Amberson ball in an old dress coat, and next day chugging up National avenue through the snow in his night mare of a sewing machine. Eugene this afternoon was richly clad in new outdoor mode: his motoring coat was soft gray fur; his cap and gloves were of gray suede, and though Lucy's hand may have shown itself in the selection of these high garbures, he wore them easily, even with a becoming hint of jauntiness. Some change might be seen in his face, too, for a successful man is seldom to be mistaken, especially if his temper be genial. Eugene had begun to look like a millionaire.

But above everything else, what was most evident about him, as he came up the path, was his confidence in the happiness promised by his present errand; the anticipation in his eyes could have been read by a stranger. His look at the door of Isabel's house was the look of a man who is quite certain that the next moment will reveal something ineffably charming, inexpressible dear.

When the bell rang, George waited at the entrance of the "reception room" until a housemaid came through the hall on her way to answer the summons.

"You needn't mind, Mary," he told her. "I'll see who it is and what they want. Probably it's only a peddler."

"Thank you, sir, mister George," said Mary, and returned to the rear of the house.

George went slowly to the front door and halted, regarding the misty silhouette of the caller upon the ornamental frosted glass. After a minute of waiting this silhouette changed outline so that an arm could be distinguished—an arm outstretched toward the bell as if the gentleman outside doubted whether or not it had sounded and were minded to try again. But before the gesture was completed George abruptly threw open the door and stepped squarely upon the middle of the threshold.

A slight change shadowed the face of Eugene; his look of happy anticipation gave way to something formal and polite. "How do you do, George?" he said. "Mrs. Manfer expects to go driving with me, I believe—if you'll be so kind as to send her word that I'm here."

George made not the slightest movement.

"No," he said. Eugene was incredulous, even when his second glance revealed how hot or cold was the haggard young man before him. "I beg your pardon," he said.

"I heard you," said George. "You said you had an engagement with my mother, I told you, No."

Eugene gave him a steady look, and then he asked quietly: "What is the difficulty?"

George kept his own voice quite enough, but that did not mitigate the vibrant fury of it. "My mother will have no interest in knowing that you came for her today," he said. "Or any other day!"

Eugene continued to look at him with a scrutiny in which began to gleam a profound anger, none the less powerful because it was so quiet. "I am afraid I do not understand you."

"I don't if I could make it much plainer," George said, raising his voice slightly, "but I'll try. You're not wanted in this house, Mr. Morgan, now or at any other time. Perhaps you'll understand—that!"

And with the last words he closed the door in Eugene's face.

Then, not moving away, he stood just inside the door, and noted that the misty silhouette remained upon the frosted glass for several moments, as if the forbidden gentleman debated in his mind what course to pursue. "Let him ring again!" George thought grimly. "Or try the side door—or the kitchen!"

But Eugene made no further attempt; the silhouette disappeared; footsteps could be heard withdrawing across the floor of the veranda; and George, returning to the window in the "reception room," was rewarded by the sight of an automobile manfacturer in "baffled retreat," with all his wooling furs and fineries mocking him. Observing the heaviness of his movements as he climbed into the tonneau, George indulged in a sickish throat rumble which bore a distant cousinship to mirth.

He went to the library, and, seating himself beside the table whereon he had placed the photograph of his father, picked up a book, and pretended to be engaged in reading it.

Presently Isabel's buoyant step was heard descending the stairs. She came into the library, a fur coat over her arm, ready to put on, and two wells round her small black hat, her right hand engaged in buttoning the glove upon her left; and, as the large room contained too many pieces of heavy furniture, and the inside shutters excluded most of the light of day, she did not at once perceive George's presence. Instead, she went to the bay window at the end of the room, which afforded a view of the street, and glanced out expectantly; then bent her attention upon her glove; after that, looked out toward the street again, and turned toward the interior of the room.

"Why, Georgie?" She came, leaned over from behind him, and there was a faint, exquisite odor as from distant apple blossoms as she kissed his cheek. "Dear, I waited lunch almost an hour for you, but you didn't come! Did you lunch out somewhere?"

"Yes," he did not look up from the book. "Did you have plenty to eat?"

"Yes." A tinkling bell was audible, and she moved to the doorway into the hall. "I'm going out driving, dear—I—"

She interrupted herself to address the housemaid, who was passing through the hall: "I think it's Mr. Morgan, Mary. Tell him I'll be there at once."

"Yes, ma'am."

Mary returned. "Twas a peddler, ma'am."

"Another one?" Isabel said, surprised. "I thought you said it was a peddler when the bell rang a little while ago."

"Mister George said it was, ma'am; he went to the door," Mary informed her, disappearing.

"There seem to be a great many of them," Isabel mused. "What did you want to sell, George?"

"He didn't say."

"You must have cut him off short!" she laughed; and then, still standing in the doorway, she noticed the big silver frame upon the table beside him. "Gracious, Georgie!" she exclaimed. "You have been investigating!" and as she came across the room for a closer view, "Is it—Is it Lucy?" she asked half timidly, half archly. But the next instant she saw whose likeness was thus set forth in elegant splendor—and she was silent, except for a long, just-audible "Oh!"

He neither looked up nor moved.

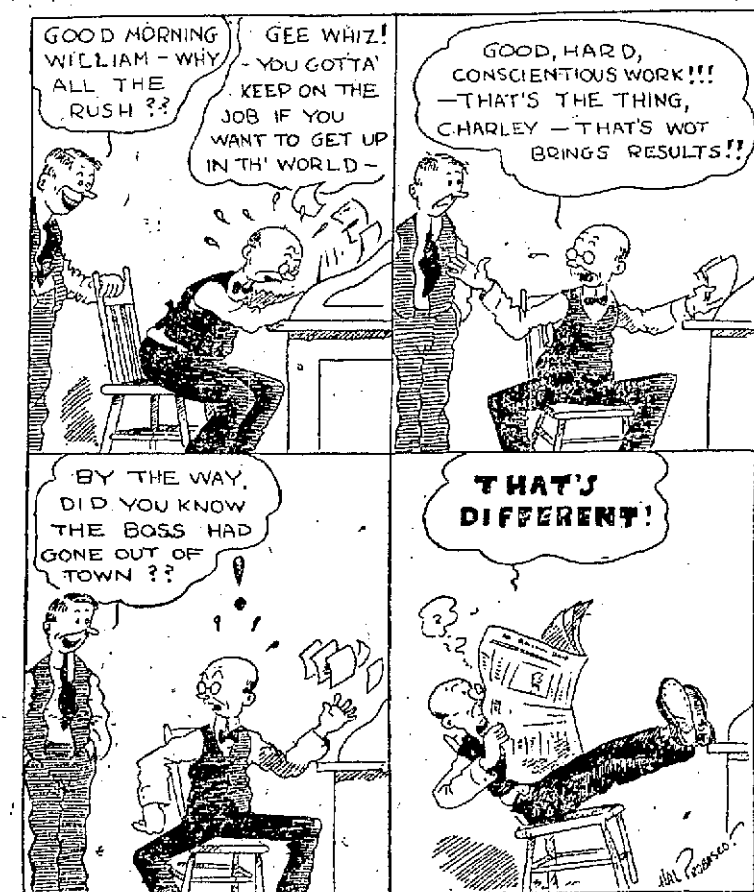

"That was nice of you, Georgie," she said, in a low voice presently. "I ought to have had it framed, myself, when I gave it to you."

He said nothing, and, standing beside him, she put her hand gently upon his shoulder, then as gently withdrew it, and went out of the room. But she did not go upstairs; he heard the faint rustle of her dress in the hall, and then the sound of her footsteps in the "reception room." After a time, silence succeeded even these slight tokens of her presence; whereupon George rose and went warily into the hall, taking care to make no noise, and he obtained an oblique view of her through the open double doors of the "reception room." She was sitting in the chair which he had occupied so long; and she was looking out of the window expectantly—a little troubled.

He went back to the library, waited an interminable half hour, then returned noiselessly to the same position in the hall, where he could see her. She was still sitting patiently by the window.

THAT'S DIFFERENT

By Probasco.

Waiting for that man, was she? Well, it might be quite a long wait! And the grim George silently ascended the stairs to his own room, and began to pace his suffering floor.

He left his door open, however, and when he heard the front door bell ring, by and by, he went half way down the stairs and stood to listen. He was not much afraid that Morgan would return, but he wished to make sure.

Mary appeared in the hall below him, but, after a glance toward the front of the house, turned back, and withdrew. Evidently Isabel had gone to the door. Then a murmur was heard, and George Amberson's voice, quick and serious: "I want to talk to you, Isabel."

and another murmur; then Isabel and her brother passed the foot of the broad, dark stairway, but did not look up, and remained unconscious of the watchful presence above them.

For a time all that George could hear was the indistinct sound of his uncle's voice; what he was saying could not be surmised, though the troubled brotherliness of his tone was evident. He seemed to be explaining something at considerable length, and there were moments when he paused, and George guessed that his mother was speaking, but her voice must have been very low, for it was entirely inaudible to him.

Suddenly he did hear her. Through the heavy doors her outcry came, clear and loud:

"Oh, no!"

It was a cry of protest, as if something her brother told her must be untrue, or, if it were true, the fact he stated must be undone; and it was a sound of sheer pain.

"Scientific management," said a senator, "came from Germany. It is of no real good, because it ignores the human element in workmen. Every scientific management sharp butts up, sooner or later, against the human element."

"Look here, my man," a scientific management chap said to a hod carrier, "let me show you how to pack those bricks in your hod. You don't place them right. You should do it this way. There—see that? By this new scientific method you actually get eight more bricks in the hod."

"Yes, I know," said the hod carrier. "But I like the old way best."

"Why? Great Caesar's ghost! Eight less bricks, I tell you! Why?"

"Because the old's easier to carry the old way, boss!"

"The young man had been married just a week, but had commenced to spend his evenings at the club. He was enjoying a friendly game of whist when the question of marriage was mentioned in a casual way by one of the company."

"This remark brought the young man to a sense of his position, and, noticing an old man across the table, he thought he would extract from him a little information."

"Mr. Oldwed," said he, "how long does a man have to be married before his wife agrees with him in everything?"

"I'm sorry, my boy," replied the man, "very sorry, but you'll have to ask someone else. You see, I've only been married forty years."

"Contentment," remarked Shinbone, "is a mighty fine thing; de only trouble 'bout it is it's kin' o' hard to 'stinguish from jes' plain laziness."

La Crosse—To discover a poisonous water moccasin snake playing, his forked tongue over his temple as he fished near a high bank of the Mississippi river was the harrowing experience of Roy Johnson, local automobile man. He dove into the river and escaped before the reptile could strike. Johnson was sure, he said, that if he had attempted to brush the snake away as he would have a bug which he suspected it to be, he would have been bitten.

Next Tuesday evening the Wallace combination will give "The Comedy of Errors" at the Opera House. Wednesday evening they will present "Scrap of Paper." The Milwaukee Sentinel speaks very highly of the presentation given there last Thursday evening, and the audiences there to greet them are unusually large.

An unsuccessful attempt was made last night to burglarize the residence of S. B. Corwin, corner of Terrace street and Mineral Point avenue, in the first ward. Two slats were sawed off one blind and broke off another blind but an entrance was not effected. The intruder either becoming discouraged or was frightened away. The family was not disturbed and knew nothing of the occurrence until this morning when Mr. Corwin discovered the broken blinds.

We received by express yesterday morning a mysterious looking box, and with doubts and fears we carefully raised the cover—and found as fine a lot of speckled trout as anyone would wish to see. We soon found they were from Fred Lindehop of the Norwalk house, Norwalk, Wis.

The same which the Haverley Church Choir Pinatone company has gained and which it so well merits has caused another company to start out of Chicago under a like name. The Inter-Ocean denounces this as a deceitful attempt to draw money out of the public, as many think it is the real Haverley company. It is said this company is going to visit the smaller towns, where Haverley could not afford to take his company. The Chicago papers say the members of this company do not belong to church choirs, and have no right to advertise themselves as such.

Milton Junction

Milton Junction, Aug. 14.—Mrs. E. Van Horn gave a reception Wednesday afternoon in honor of her mother and sister, who are her guests. Light refreshments were served. The first ward. Two slats were sawed off one blind and broke off another blind but an entrance was not effected. The intruder either becoming discouraged or was frightened away. Orfordville News

Orfordville, Aug. 16.—Five automobiles of the Onsgard relatives left Friday morning for Spring Grove, Minn., where the annual Onsgard reunion will be held. This function has been observed for several years, the people from Minnesota coming to Orfordville, but this year a change was arranged and the reunion will be held Sunday at Spring Grove. Other members of the family will go from Stoughton and other points.

Several automobiles from Orfordville went to Madison Friday to witness the demonstration of the tobacco stripping device which was to be exhibited at the agricultural department of the university.

It looked for a few minutes Friday morning as though the tobacco crop in the field would suffer when half the size of marbles began to fall in abundance. The downfall, however, only continued for a few minutes and no great damage was sustained.

Rev. H. K. Taylor, Genoa Junction, accompanied by his wife, are spending a day or two with Orfordville friends.

Rev. M. A. Drew and wife returned from Madison Friday, accompanied by their little grandson, who will spend some time at the parsonage.

Section 10. The state board of canvassers shall not meet to canvass the returns until ten days after the receipt of the returns from the different county clerks canvass, certify, record, and publish as in the case of a constitutional amendment the number of ballots cast in favor of such proposed recognition and the number of ballots cast against such proposed recognition.

Section 11. If a majority of the votes cast at such special election are in favor of the recognition of Wisconsin soldiers, sailors, marines and nurses as provided upon such ballots, then the necessary taxes shall be levied in the year 1919.

What This Name Means on a Motor Car

When you see the Columbia name on a motor car, remember that it signifies a "good ALL the way through" machine.

A GOOD RECORD

It's record is good. The Columbia Motors Company have never built a failure—have never had a "poor year." The fact that, to our knowledge, the Columbia Six has never had a dissatisfied owner, testifies to this.

APPEARANCE

When you see a Columbia Six you will need no comment on its appearance. You will stop and look at it—as everyone else does.

MECHANICALLY ALL GOOD

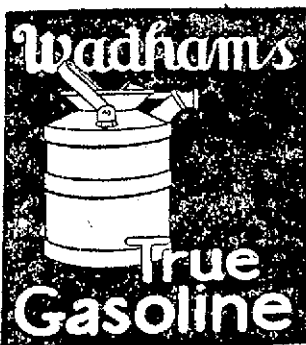

Mechanically, the Columbia Six is good clear through—from the Continental Red Seal Motor down to the smallest details. Every unit from which it is made is acknowledged by car experts to be as good as can be manufactured.

FEATURES

In addition, the Columbia Six includes two features which are recognized among the greatest improvements in motor car building during recent years—the automatic motor temperature thermostatically controlled and the non-synchronizing spring suspension. Tests have proved the former increases motor efficiency as much as 30%. The non-synchronizing springs speak for themselves when you ride in the car.

True Gasoline Wadham's

I take pleasure in announcing to the motorists of Janesville, that commencing Wed., Aug. 20, they can obtain here WADHAM'S TRUE GASOLINE.

It will be necessary for me to ask the indulgence of my customers Monday and Tuesday while installing the new tank and pump.

Look Twice at the Tricky Price Bait

ONE of the best little games that poor, mock motor-fuel plays is trapping the unwary into a false line of reasoning. It can't BLIND them to its poorness and drawbacks, because they are too apparent to be camouflaged.

But be a tricky price bait it lures them into a wrong view of the SIGNIFICANCE of those drawbacks. It reconciles them to putting up with its bad qualities as an economy measure.

"Yes," it gets them to say---

"Maybe it doesn't start as easily as True Gasoline, and it misses a lot, and, of course, it chokes up pretty fast with carbon, but I guess I can put up with those inconveniences for the sake of the money saving." That's where the trap is sprung!

Because those inconveniences are not the vital issue at all. They are only outward manifestations of more serious inward evil—the surface outcroppings of deadly, hidden destructiveness that menaces your motor's life instead of merely your convenience in driving.

And Mockoline is ahead as long as it can keep the luckless motorist's eyes on the symptoms instead of the disease!

True Gasoline Wadham's 30 Cents has no such symptoms because it has no such disease. It is chemically healthy.

YOUR MOTOR and power line are not battered into early destruction by the shocks of continued "missing." Because by very nature, genuine "straight-run" gasoline explodes on a hair-trigger. Ready vaporization and quick firing belong in it.

YOUR VALVES are not pitted, nor your power stolen by free carbon.

YOUR MOTOR is not continually overheated by slow-burning excess charges of gas, crowded in to make up for poor power.

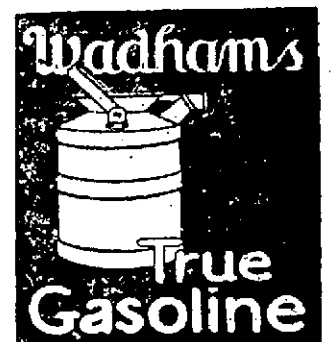

YOUR CYLINDERS are not scored and your bearings burned out by kerosene-diluted lubricant. "True" gasoline has no kerosene to drip down and kill your oil.

Those are the evils that lurk behind the lure of a few pennies "saving" in first cost. Before this kind of economy and this kind of reasoning get a stranglehold on YOUR car, back away from the snare and use only Wadham's True Gasoline.

If your garage man does not display this "SIGN OF THE RED CAN" telephone to our Janesville wholesale distributing station (Franklin St. and Western Ave.)

WADHAM'S OIL COMPANY "Emphatically Independent"

30c is the price to pay if you wish to attain the ultimate in gasoline economy. All Wadham's advertising refers particularly to the 30c grade of Wadham's True Gasoline. If you have been using the 27c quality, pay 30c for the highest grade no matter how well satisfied you are with the former.

*"Music exalts each joy, allays each grief,
Expels disease, softens every pain;
And hence the wise and ancient days adored,
One power of physic—melody and song!"*

Phonograph and Piano are MODERN, but MUSIC is older than the STARS!

While the worlds still slept in PRIMORDIAL NIGHT, in the mind of the INFINITE dwelt MUSIC!

"In the beginning," says the Book, "God created the heaven and the earth, and the earth was without form and VOID, and DARKNESS was upon the face of the deep!

"And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters!

"And God said, 'LET THERE BE LIGHT; and there WAS light'—and with LIGHT there came LOVE AND MUSIC!

Music soothes the ruffled soul like oil on TROUBLED WATERS. Music sways the sensibilities like the soft summer winds on the strings of an Eolian harp. Music ENNOBLES, INSPIRES, REFINES, UPLIFTS! Arouses the latent GOOD! Uncovers the hidden GOLD!

Let there be light—and there WAS light! Let there be music—and there WAS music; flowers and birds, and joyous laughter!

Pan, god of the forests and fields—god of shepherds and flocks—leader of the dance of the wood nymphs—inventor of the PIPES—performed with such wizardry that he FILLED ALL NATURE with music!

Harken to PAN! Open wide the windows of the SOUL—and LET MUSIC IN!

Apollo, too, back in earth's springtime, was wont to HEAL THE AILMENTS of mankind with CONCORD of SWEET SOUND. Would you know the names of some of the world's great physicians? HAYDN! HANDEL! BACH! Healers of power!

— BEETHOVEN! WEBER! SCHUBERT! MENDELSSOHN! CHOPIN! MOZART! Sick indeed is the soul that will not rise to the magic of their medicine.

The influence of music is SPIRITUAL. It beckons UPWARD! Let music in at the window, and GOOD will come in at the DOOR!

"Speech of angels," says Carlyle. "The Universal Language of Mankind!"

Have you a PHONOGRAPH, or a PIANO, or a PIANO-PLAYER in your home? You SHOULD have! You owe it to YOURSELF and YOURS to have one—they mean so MUCH!

The PIANO is a noble instrument, so is the PLAYER piano—but the phonograph is an instrument apart—in a class by itself!

Of all the wonderful things turned out by the hand of man, the phonograph is the most extraordinary. It is so SIMPLE! so INEXPENSIVE! so NECESSARY! and does such REMARKABLE THINGS!

Go into any one of the MUSIC HOUSES listed below, and ask to hear a record from one of the great composers! Let a flood of glorious melody into your soul, and don't leave the place until you make the performer YOURS! You can arrange to have it sent "on easy terms" if you wish—but have it.

All music is GOOD! Some music is BETTER—but the music which touches the heart is best of all for you.

Play your old favorites! Take a new lease on life! Music will add smiles, and years and happiness, and a few paltry DOLLARS will place an instrument in your home!
